INCLUSION

Adult Family Care promotes family living in a nurturing home environment for individuals who are unable to live independently.

model in Massachusetts. Adult Family Care (AFC) is another service model that responds to the current and changing needs of the individuals we serve such as 24-hour staff homes or nursing homes.

AFC reflects the belief that individuals thrive and grow to their maximum potential for independent, fulfilled lives when they have strong and ongoing personal relationships, access to community activities, and individualized care that matches their unique needs and capabilities. Adult Family Care embraces this philosophy and is an alternative to group living arrangements.

Why choose Adult Family Care? Our services offer the quality care and support necessary to meet each individual's specific needs—this provides the family with support and peace of mind and the individual with an enhanced quality of life.

Why Adult Family Care?

People who are unable to live independently because of a medical, physical or developmental disability will benefit from meaningful, lasting relationships in family-like setting, where their needs are met, their interests and choices are supported, and involvement with their community is encouraged.

Adult Family Care (AFC) recognizes and supports the extraordinary commitment people make when they care for a family member in their home, or place their trust in a home-away-from-home for that loved one. It is a program that not only provides compassionate care, utilizing an individual-centered approach, but funding to support that care.

Caregivers receive a tax-exempt stipend and room-and-board payment from the individual's benefits.

How Does it Work?

Pathlight provides and trains caregivers to deliver care in their home. A Registered Nurse visits the home, monitors health needs, and develops a plan of care. A care manager provides case management through regular visits, ensuring quality of care and access to resources. Support is available 24/7 and overnight respite is available for caregivers.

The Program

A Medicaid/Mass Health funded program, AFC pays family and non-family caregivers for their oversight of eligible adults with physical, cognitive, or medical disabilities. Caregivers receive a monthly, tax-exempt stipend in addition to a room-and-board payment from the individual's benefits.

Eligibility Determination

A nurse and care manager completes a detailed inquiry and assessment of the individual's needs and capabilities. A physician completes a Patient Summary and makes a recommendation for Adult Family Care. A third-party administrator determines eligibility.

Eligibility to Receive Care

Individuals age 16 or over who have (or are eligible) for Mass Health and have a medical, physical, or cognitive disability that requires daily physical assistance, prompting or supervision to successfully complete ADLs are eligible to apply for Adult Family Care.

ADLs Considered

ADLs considered in establishing eligibility for Adult Family Care are bathing, dressing, toileting, transferring from one position to another, ambulating, and eating. Behavior management issues, such as wandering, resistance to care, and other challenging issues are also considered.

Eligibility for Caregivers

Parents who are not legal guardians of their 18 and older child, other family members, and friends may be approved through Pathlight's home-study process as caregivers. As needed, Pathlight will provide a caregiver who will care for the individual. All caregivers will receive initial and ongoing training. Spouses and parents who are legal guardians cannot receive payment through AFC. If their child is over 18 and the parents are co-guardians, one parent can receive the stipend if the other relinquishes guardianship or another person becomes the guardian.

"I like living in a home with a family. I was living in a nursing home and this is much better. I can eat when I want to, I have more freedom to do the things I like and have become a part of my community." ~Bill, AFC member

"AFC is a wonderful program, I work in long-term care and I see just how this program enhances the lives of the participants and care givers. AFC has been a valuable addition to my life, my family and Bill's life." ~Jared, caregiver
